++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mainly cloudy with rain and hill snow. Wet on Tuesday.

Today:
Rather cold, cloudy and breezy, with western parts in particular seeing occasional rain and some hill snow. Becoming drier and brighter later in the day, with some limited sunny intervals possible as winds also ease. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Tonight:
Mainly fine initially, but soon becoming cloudier as rain spreads into southern areas at least, with the north probably drier for a time, but colder and more liable to frost. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Tuesday:
Potentially very wet, with a band of rain stalling over the region. Rather cold with extensive low cloud, coupled with persistent and occasionally heavy rain and some snow over hills. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Heavy rain potentially continuing Wednesday. Notably colder Thursday, with a risk of gales and more widespread snow, ahead of a brighter but colder end to the week with wintry showers.
